In this insightful session, CK explores how AI, Automation, and Robotics are transforming the Future of Work across: the emerging careers that humans will pursue; the rise of machine coworkers; and the essential competencies required for success.

Packed with examples, forecasts, and “aha-moments” this session is divided into 3 overarching impacts of:

Impact #1: New Careers: AI elevates human roles, and reshapes the nature of work that humans will engage in. As AIs take on more tasks that have historically been performed by humans they will “promote” people to work in different—and better!—roles and activities.

Impact #2: New Coworkers: Humans will transition from working on machines to collaborating with machine coworkers. This shift requires us to reframe our view of “human-machine teamwork,” and learn how to integrate AIs into the workplace ethically and efficiently to increase productivity, job fulfillment, and business outcomes.

Impact #3: New Competencies: A new era demands a new skillset—and this time reskilling is vastly different on two fronts: first, the skillsets needed will be comprised of BOTH technical literacy and emotional intelligence. And second, continuous learning has pivoted in priority to that of strategic imperative. After all, AI capabilities will continue to evolve, and human skills must keep pace.

Book CK today to start preparing for a vastly different workplace of tomorrow.
